May 18th, 2020 - We recommend the following book because it makes us reflecting on what we like and what we do in a clever and at once provoking manner: Fisher, Mark (2014). Ghosts of My Life: Writings on Depression, Hauntology, and Lost Futures. Winchester: Zero Books.

The term hauntology refers to the philosophical thinking of Jacques Derrida and has been assigned to a particular realm of current thought.
Ghosts Of My Life Writings On Depression Hauntology And Lost Futures proposes that we are haunted by futures that failed to happen. Mark Fisher, the author of the acclaimed Capitalist Realism, argues that depression is not just a personal or psychological issue but a social one. The book explores how depression is a symptom of the failures of capitalism and how it affects our collective experience. Fisher's work is a call to think critically about the implications of our current economic system and its impact on our mental health.
